under such circumstances on this far away frontier was very affecting and even bordering on the remantic. This suited the natural bent of their minds and it is no one to my that they enjoyed themselves. They worked in the farm, huntid and fashed laying many plans for the future. Henry was after than Willie by three years and had been long enough on the frontier to have some experience and talked to his brother about Indians and what they must do in case of an Indian attack, etc. They had long anticipated a trip to Fort Griffin with watermelous, and when a quantity of them were well ripe a two-shorse load was carried to the fort. The safe exceeded their fondest expectations, bringing from 50 cents to $1.50 cach. Highly elated, they started back and when about sixteen miles from the post Henry was arcused from a sleep he had fallen into by Willie excitatining: "Henry, the Indians have got us." The brother sprang mp quickly from the bottom of the waron bed and esw about thirty mounted Indians shead of them in the road painted and in full war contume. Who could have thought for an instant there was any chance for these two lads in the face of such odds. Most boys and even grown men would have fallen easy victims, but Henry took in the situation at a glance and made up his mind in an instant what to do. Seising his Winchester, he says. "We must run and fight and get to that and sprang out, followed by Willie. The Indians came reliang in pursuit on botse-The Beer that made Milwankee famous.

He speut so much of his time in Europe about the time that I was coming to manhood that I did not often see him, but whenever I did meet up with him he would corral me for a talk of hours about the people we knew down in the Loue Star country.

"I came along here to Washington thirten rears ago when the eleventh census was being organized, and enight on for one of the special agent bilies. I sent for my wife there on, and we went to housekeeping and got slong pretty smoothly. But I didn't know as much then about saving a dellar against the rainy day as I do now, so that when I was seddenly let out of the census to the fall of 186t, owing to the completion of the work of my branch of the quift, I was so near broke that there wasn't anything humorous in the situation.

"The first thing that had to happen was the giving up of our house is the north-branch of the outlit, I was so near broke that there wasn't anything humorous in the structure.

The first thing that had to happen was the giving up of our house is the perind worst section, and my wife and I took a comple of smail rooms was over on New deresey avenue and began that species of pentup misery known as Tight house acoping. I wasn't going to do my writing to my recole down in Texas for funds, and I wasn't going to do my writing of the bort, chiner. We here both pretty young then, but we were as clessy as you please, and we went right an sending of the perty young then, but we were as clessy as you please, and we went right an sending of the mentionsistic letters about what a grand time we were having in Washington, when, as a matter of fact, there were often times when the problem of how to pay for the rest of these two dinks little New Jersey avenue rooms had me guessing hard.

"I managed to pick up a bit of copying work at the parset and pension attorning of Christmas drew night things were still pretty skimpy with me. I was just about a picking up chough to barely sugale us to toget along with the most amazing conomics, but the Christmas proposition stree had me out on a limb when Christmas eve came niche, as it has a babit of dotar.

"Me wife knew that there couldn't be many pessibility of anything deng in the difficult of the course of the situation actually and character it all cheerfully, rectended the street of the situation actually and of funny featured.
